

All Set For Amateur Show and Broadcast Dedicate New Pipe Organ in Mokena Church Sunday

PROF. ALBERT BECK, GUEST ORGANIST FOR SPECIAL SERVICE

A new pipe organ has been installed in the Immanuel Lutheran church at Mokena. Because the old organ was outgrowing its usefulness, members of the Ruth society of the church, realizing the need for a larger and better organ, started a movement four years ago, to get a pipe organ. The matter was brought before the congregation and a committee was appointed to work toward that end, with the result that a contract was signed with the Wick's Organ company of Highland, Ill. The committee personnel consisted of Rev. A. W. Gode, chairman, Edward Hentsch, Robert Geuther and Byron Nelson.

This new organ is a two manual and pedal instrument with a modern range and a detached console, which is located in the rear of the church. It has all electric mechanism. Control of the pipes is speedy and quiet, the valves, which operate electrically, is an exclusive development of this company.

Pipes of the organ are enclosed in an organ chamber to the side of the sanctuary. The chamber was designed by the organ company and built by the congregation. The total organ is through a beautiful grille mounted on the wall into the sanctuary. Behind the grille is a series of expression shutters, electrically controlled from the console, enabling the organist to "shade" the tone at will.

In the basement of the church there is an all-steel blower providing wind for the pipes. Low voltage direct current for the action is obtained from a generator connected to the blower motor. Wind is produced at a set and regulated pressure by use of a turbine principle.

An analysis of the pipes in the organ is extremely interesting. There are small pipes, about the size of a pencil, in both wood and metal. From these, the range extends in size and depth to the huge wood pipes of the pedal bass, with four basic families of organ tone represented, by the diapason, the fundamental characteristic of the church organ; flutes, both open and stopped; strings of a soft quality imitative of the violin; and the reed pipe tone personified by the beautiful oboe. All these tone colors can be heard at different pitches and in solo as well as combination. The range of tonal color is limitless.

Specially selected woods, air and steam dried, are incorporated in the organ. The metal in the pipes is cast in alloys best suited for the tone desired. The number of electrical contacts and the amount of wire in the system is astonishing. The organ was assembled on the factory floor, played and inspected by artists in their respective fields, dismantled, crated and shipped to the church in the company's specially designed truck. The installation was then performed in the church by one of the outstanding organ men of this country.

This new organ will be dedicated Sunday afternoon, November 21 at 2:30 o'clock to which the public is cordially invited.

The guest organist will be Prof. Albert Beck M. Mus. of the Concordia Teacher's college, River Forest, Ill. The choir will render two selections: "Break Forth into Joy," Simper, and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," Bach, Rev. A. W. Gode is the choir director and accompanist.

The Rev. Herman Bauer of the Peace Congregation in Chicago will be the guest speaker. Rev. Gode will dedicate the organ. An organ recital will follow the dedicatory service by Prof. Beck. A social hour will follow at the close of the service.

There will be services in the church Thanksgiving Day at 10 a.m. The choir will render the anthem, "Praise Ye The Father".

OFFICIAL OPENING OF 159TH ST. AT OAK FOREST SET FOR NOV. 28

The great day has come at last. After two years of planning and working, overcoming many obstacles of weather, water and lack of material, the opening of 159th street at Oak Forest will take place Sunday afternoon November 28.

Starting with a huge parade at about 2:30 o'clock, led by state officials and the village board members, it will be a day of rejoicing to all.

Village Clerk Richard Bobbitt has been in correspondence with the State highway department and together this date was arrived at.

The village board in planning the parade, will place Miss Betty Kessey, recently crowned queen in the lead. Others invited to be in the lineup are the Police department, Fire department, Business Men's association, the Cub Scouts and a well known band.

A public speaking system will be

Tree Blown Down by Storm Broke Tel. Wires at New Lenox

During the heavy wind and rain storm Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, a large tree east of New Lenox was blown down and fell across the telephone wires.

This happened about two miles east of New Lenox. The tree happened to be located between two telephone poles, and therefore only carried the telephone wires with it when it went down. Wires were down for five spans, and put out the toll service for Mokena and Frankfort for two hours.

Three telephone crews worked all night to restore service. The underground cable which is being installed from Joliet to Frankfort and Mokena, lacks but the finishing touches for completion, and had this been working, this storm would not have affected the telephone service. The splicing of the underground cable will be finished in a very short time, according to Telephone officials.

NEW BUSINESS OPENS IN MOKENA

Mokena is to have a new business place. It is to be known as The Mokena Cleaning, Laundry and Shoe Repair service and will be located in the former Hensel building on Front street.

The proprietors, Frank Stauffer and his brother Don, both of Mokena, have been busy the past week arranging the room for their opening day, next Monday. Frank Stauffer returned about six months ago with his honorable discharge from the navy after serving six years in that department of the service. Don, 17, has been working for several years in various places. This is the first venture in business for either of them and we wish them every success.

They will open every morning at 6:45 and close at seven in the evening, and will give 24 hours service in shoe repairing and dry cleaning. The boys are living with their mother, Mrs. Ione Stauffer, Woodland Circle drive, Mokena.

Annual Meet of Home & Farm Health Asso.

The annual meeting of the Will Co. Home and Farm Bureau Health association was held in the Ottawa St. M. E. church, Joliet the evening of Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. with 65 members present.

Following routine reports, the election of a board of directors took place with the following people being appointed: Mrs. Alfred Krapf, Green Garden; Mrs. Phil Goodwin, Wilmington; Mrs. George Freis, Florence; Mrs. Harvey Lewis, Troy; Frank Loucks, Homer; R. R. Webb, Wheatland; William McGrath, Manhattan and Frank Vesoloski, Wilmington.

NEW POLICE CHIEF FOR SPEEDERS AT MOKENA

So many complaints have been coming to the village officials of the speeders in Mokena, that at the board meeting last Tuesday, the board appointed Earl Briggs as police chief. He has been directed by the village board to conduct an intensive drive against all speeding on the village streets.

Installed for this occasion and President William Barr will introduce state and county officials. The Village Clerk has been instructed to send invitations to the Governor Dwight H. Green Superintendent of the Rock Island railroad and neighboring village officials.

Judge William Meyers, the police chief of Oak Forest, has planned a soap box derby. He states it will take place even though the boys will have to wear ear muffs. Any boy interested in participating may contact Judge Meyers at his home at 159th and Latrobe avenue or by calling him at Tinsley Park 2524.

It will seem good to travel all the way through on 159th street in this locality again. All neighboring communities are sympathetic with the village of Oak Forest, knowing the severe trial the road construction has been to them.

Mother of Three Killed Sunday in Auto When Struck by Rock Island Train at New Lenox

What was to have been a happy day last Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Dunlap of Chicago, ended in tragedy when their car was struck by a Rock Island train killing Mrs. Dunlap instantly.

The Dunlaps, ages 30 and 28 respectively, left their three small children, Robert, four years, Larry, three years and Ronald 18 months, with Mrs. Dunlap's mother while they drove to New Lenox with friends to spend the day hunting. Arriving at the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Merittie, east of New Lenox, they discovered they were about out of gas, and drove into the village and got gas. They were returning to the Merittie home on Anderson street, and were nearly over the Rock Island railroad crossing when Train No. 21, going west, struck them.

Mr. Joseph E. Bunch, 24, who was standing on the porch of his home on Anderson street, saw the Dunlaps pass his home and watched them as they approached the crossing. He saw the train hit the car, and although his leg is in a cast, he at once went to the scene of the accident.

Deputies LaVerne Lauffer and William Heggie responded to the call for help. They took Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap to Silver Cross hospital where she was pronounced dead. Mr. Dunlap was treated by Dr. Charles Hoffman, the fractured ribs and cuts and bruises latter stating that a bruised pelvis, were the extent of his injury.

Surviving Mrs. Dunlap are her husband and three sons and her mother, Mrs. Josephine Castrovellari; three sisters and one brother. Funeral services were held in Chicago.

Grace Wilson—A Girl Scout Booster

When the WLS Barn Dance group appeared at the Rialto theatre in Joliet, recently, Mrs. Phyllis G. McCoy of New Lenox had the privilege of interviewing one of the members, Grace Wilson.

With the thought of youth in mind, Mrs. McCoy has this to say:

"Grace Wilson, popular radio star on the WLS Barn Dance program, has entertained Girl Scout Troops, in fact, she has even led them in their song fests.

She feels that Girl Scouting gives each girl an equal opportunity to learn constructive things, and make worth while friends.

Of the ten Girl Scout laws, Miss Wilson thinks the second one, "A Girl Scout is Loyal", and the sixth, "A Girl Scout is a friend to Animals", are the two most important ones, for the simple reason that loyalty cannot be taught. She thinks it is a shame the way some animals are abused by people who don't give them the proper care.

Miss Wilson gives a bit of advice to little girls who wish to make their parents proud of their accomplishments:

"Join the Girl Scout or Brownie troops in your town, and learn how to be happy, useful children, a credit to your family, teacher and friends.

Grace Wilson has used her singing talent to make others happy ever since she began her career at five years of age.

She and her family were living in Owosso, Mich., the year was about 1900. Her father was a prosperous shoe merchant. Her mother had given up her career as an opera singer, to devote her life rearing Grace and her little brother. But trouble descended upon their household.

Grace's father died suddenly. Her mother then decided to take little Grace "out on the road" with her. Grace learned to sing and dance, and soon won people's hearts by singing their favorite songs.

For 25 years now, Grace Wilson has sung her way to fame. She is undoubtedly one of the kindest and most understanding women in her profession, which accounts for her success. Her kind disposition is all due to the fact that at an early age, her mother taught her to be considerate of others, regardless of how busy she was, and this idea remained with her all through life and her work, and still today she is practicing that principle which makes her the gracious woman she is.

Ex-President Hoover Heds Commission To Organize Gov. Branch

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual

National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

As the United States News puts it, former President Hoover "may have more influence upon the country now than he ever did while he was in the White House."

The reason for this hasn't anything to do with partisan politics, or the possible resurgence of the long-starved Republican party. It is, instead, due to the fact that Mr. Hoover is head of a little-known but immensely important commission—the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the government. And that calls for a little background information:

The Federal government, like Topsy, "just grewed." Bureau duplicates bureau. There is a tremendous overlapping of responsibility. In some cases several independent agencies are charged with doing almost an identical job. The result is a heavy waste in manpower and money—plus a disheartening amount of red tape and administrative lethargy and inefficiency.

Ever since anyone can remember there has been talk about doing something to remedy this unhappy situation. Taft, Wilson, Hoover and F. D. Roosevelt all had plans of one kind or another. And all of them got precisely nowhere. And one of the main causes of their failure was pressure on Congress by governmental employees who were afraid of being displaced. To quote the U. S. News again, "All past moves toward abolishing government agencies, or trimming down their power, have run up against this roadblock. The employees go to their friends, and their friends go to Congress. Thus, sometimes Congress has rejected presidential plans for reorganization at the outset."

The 80th Congress created and financed the Commission which Mr. Hoover heads. It is to report within 10 days after the 81st Congress convenes next year. The law authorizing it provided that it be on a strictly bipartisan basis—with half the commissioners Republicans and half Democrats. President Truman immediately signed the act, and appointed the former President as boss. The broad objective is a sweeping study of what can be done to improve the executive branch.

The complete study, of course, has not yet been made. However, Mr. Hoover recently made a talk in which he outlined some of the reforms which will be recommended. As an example, he intimated that the Commission will propose that the number of Federal lending agencies be drastically reduced—"an adroit citizen," he said, "can probably borrow something from 26 different agencies in this government."

The report—judging by Mr. Hoover's remarks—will dwell heavily on the unbecomingly burden that has been placed on the President. His legal duties and responsibilities have been increased to an incredible extent in the last few decades. The Executive Department, Mr. Hoover believes, must be streamlined and made more efficient, and that will require the delegation of functions: In his own words: "More operating vice-presidents—that is, more responsibility on cabinet members—is the answer. The President must be relieved of some of this administration of these small agencies running around loose."

In this connection, there was a hint that the Commission may recommend an increase in the number of Cabinet members. In addition to the 10 Departments, the Executive is in direct charge of from 60 to 80 independent agencies—and some of them are exceedingly important, complex and specialized. The impossibility of one man doing the job properly was emphasized by Mr. Hoover when he said, "If the President devoted one hour to each, he would have a 70-hour week." All the other onerous work which the President has to do would come on top of that.

Mr. Hoover also touched on the dangers of excessively costly government, when he said, "We have not yet socialized property in the United States, but we have come close to socializing savings." It is clear that our vast commitments for rearmament, foreign rehabilitation, and the really essential functions of government, make it all the more important that we pare costs wherever possible, and to the greatest possible degree.

There is hardly a branch of the government which will not be touched upon when the Commission's report goes to Congress. Mr. Hoover has assumed personal direction of the group studying the Presidency. Other groups, all staffed by experts in various fields, have been assigned the jobs of dealing with buying, veterans, farming, statistics; foreign affairs and so on down the list. In all, 22 reports are being prepared in order to provide the groundwork for dealing with the big picture. Mr. Hoover has said, "We are going to have to make some very bold and drastic recommendations." Most citizens will say Amen to that.

Serious losses to apple growers occur because of bruising of fruit.

Why an increase in telephone prices is necessary

COSTS UP—EARNINGS DOWN

Prices that are too low—expenses that keep increasing faster than income—tell the story of lower and lower earnings and why we're forced to ask the Illinois Commerce Commission to let us increase the price we may charge for telephone service.

HERE'S THE PICTURE STORY:

TWO-THIRDS OF TELEPHONE COMPANY EXPENSES ARE WAGES

Because we sell a highly personal service, two-thirds of every dollar of operating expense goes out for payroll costs. Wage costs have almost trebled since 1940. In that year, our total payroll was $47 million. This year it will be $139 million—a $92 million increase. And the annual effect of recent "third round" general wage increases is not included in the above figures.

Today the equipment behind each new telephone costs more. Copper, lead, poles and building costs have advanced overall more than 60% since 1946, when we asked for our first price increase. This means many more dollars are invested in telephone service—and we must pay a reasonable return for the use of these additional investment dollars. Thus, even without latest wage increases we would still need a price increase.

WE'RE TRYING TO MEET PUBLIC DEMAND FOR SERVICE—WE WANT TO CONTINUE

As the only telephone company in the field in this community, we have an obligation to provide the best kind of telephone service to everyone who needs it. Since the war, we've added equipment in every Illinois Bell community—added more than a million miles of wire in cable, built 77 new or enlarged buildings, put in thousands of new central office switchboards—all to meet demand for more or better service.

INVESTORS NECESSARY FOR GOOD SERVICE

We can continue good and expanding service only so long as we have the support of investors who provide the money needed for new and improved equipment. Hence, financial stability is a requisite for successfully meeting our public obligation.

EARNINGS TOO LOW TO ATTRACT INVESTORS

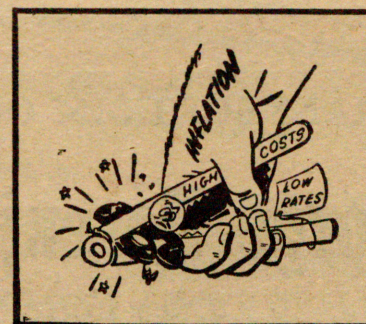

Right now the telephone company is not sharing in the prosperity common to most business. A recent study showed that 440 leading manufacturers, with whom we must compete for the investor's dollar, earn an average several times greater than this company. We do not say we should earn as much. We do say investors make the final choice and that the gap on the chart must be narrowed promptly. Today, with our trend downward, that gap is getting wider.

Currently, our rate of earnings, taking into consideration "third round" wage increases, is lower than when we applied for rate relief in 1946, and we can foresee our earnings again approaching zero.

PROMPT CORRECTIVE ACTION NECESSARY

Such an abnormally low earnings level seriously threatens the heart and core of good telephone service. To relieve the grip of inflation, and protect the public's telephone service, our prices must advance without unnecessary delay. The increase we need and have requested is small in comparison with today's price levels.

Proposed new rates are on file at your telephone business office. Your service representative will be glad to supply local details.

Plans to Cut Down The Divorce Rate

A new plan for protecting American homes and children against the rising divorce rate is proposed in the latest issue, just published, of the Illinois Law Review of the Northwestern University Law School.

Writing in the journal, Judge Julius H. Miner of the Circuit Court of Cook county, recommends conciliation, rather than reconciliation, procedures. His plan prescribes a required "cooling off" period in advance of the filing of a divorce complaint. It provides for the filing of a confidential "statement of intention" to institute a suit without any allegations of grounds, and for a subsequent waiting period of 60 days as condition precedent to the filing of a complaint. Exceptions could be permitted in cases of emergency.

CEMENT WORK
CHIMNEY PLASTERING

E. PFEIFER AND SON

New Lenox 2131

Under the Miner plan, impartial services of the court would be made available free of charge during the waiting period to the husband and wife, on a purely voluntary and confidential basis for the purpose of obtaining an amicable adjustment of difficulties and a permanent conciliation. Such assistance from the court would include medical, psychiatric and psychological services, in addition to the help obtainable from the couple's own spiritual adviser.

The plan requires a greater measure of authority for judges and new judicial machinery which, Judge Miner suggests, could be written into the law by the simple process of a Supreme Court rule, or an act of the legislature. The provision would not restrict, but merely defer, the filing of divorce action to permit the state, actually the third party in every divorce, an opportunity to safeguard its rights in the solidarity of the home.

"The truth is," the judge writes, "that despite the astronomical figures cited by reconcilers, divorce dockets are cluttered with litigations between 'reconciled' couples, and the chancellors divorce them daily by the score. Their enforced second honeymoon is of brief duration, soon to end in another courtroom."

This year's Illinois apple crop was about 2,499,000 bushels, an amount 40 per cent less than last year, and 20 per cent below the ten-year average production, according to state and federal departments of agriculture. The size and quality of the fruit were better than usual, and a large proportion of the apples were expected to grade U. S. No. 1.

For each 100 hens in the laying house allow two 10-foot feeders, and at least two water fountains with a combined capacity of at least five gallons.

PASSENGER BUSES MAY CARRY MAIL

The Illinois Commerce Commission has ruled that passenger buses operating between points in Illinois may carry mail, express, and newspapers. The order restricts single parcels of express, mail, or papers to a maximum of 35 pounds, and also provides that the service be limited to what might be called an emergency nature.

The decision comes out of an application of Northland Greyhound Lines, which serves numerous cities and towns in northern Illinois, including Chicago, Elgin, Harmony, Marengo, Belvidere, Cherry Valley, Rockford, Pecatonica, Freeport, Stockton, McHenry, Richmond and Northbrook.

The Commission's order grants the authority to carry mail, express and papers only to the Northern Greyhound Lines, but other bus companies are expected to apply for similar privileges.

Low Intelligence Makes Good Drivers

"A high-grade moron makes the best auto driver," according to James Stannard Baker, research director of the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

"Other things being equal," he said, "the people with very high intelligence and those with very low intelligence are the poorest drivers." The intellectuals, Mr. Baker has found, "take driving too easy," and don't keep their minds on it.

"The driver with the extremely low I. Q. tries to learn, but he is not up to it. He does not profit from experience, because when he has an accident, he doesn't know what he did wrong."

But the man who is not too bright, if he has good training, keen eyesight, and is alert and fairly mature, is the safest, most careful of all drivers. His mind is not highly stimulated; he is less subject to day dreams, and is less likely to become bored with the mechanics of driving than the man with the superior mind. He has little imagination; hence he is not distracted from the road by every bit of activity he passes.

"He plays an important part in our society," Mr. Baker emphasized, "and is as necessary and desirable as the highly intellectual person."

That accidents are more prevalent with the college-level driver was shown during the depression when college graduates were hired to drive buses. Their accident rate was half again as high as that of drivers with below average intelligence.

The college-level person learns driving quickly, but he doesn't learn thoroughly. He does not form automatic driving habits, but instead decides what to do whenever a crisis arises. As he gets older, his decisions are slower, and he becomes a hazard on the road, the traffic engineer pointed out.

The worst drivers of all, the traffic engineer said, are the 16-year-olds, who have ten times as many accidents as their fathers. They can't keep their minds on driving, Mr. Baker concluded.

County C R O P Committee Organized

Carlton Steigle of Plainfield, has been named to head up Will County's C R O P (better known as Christian Rural Overseas Program) and has announced that plans are already under way to raise enough money which will enable Will County to purchase three carloads of corn and two carloads of soybeans.

Parent agencies or C R O P are Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief and its function is the gathering of gifts in kind from Americans to feed the needy overseas.

In addition to church groups in Illinois over thirty other state organizations are cooperating in this relief movement. Practically every state in the nation has already started to raise its share of the national goal.

In Illinois and in Will County "CROP WEEK" will be November 21-28. All Will county residents during this week will be asked to make cash contributions either through their church or to the chairman in their ownship. Steigle says that the names of these chairmen will be announced during the next week.

Food from all over Illinois will be assembled and will leave the state on December 15 on what will be known as the Abraham Lincoln Food Train. Others named to assist Steigle in Will County's CROP drive to raise sufficient money to purchase three carloads of corn and two carloads of soybeans are vice-chairmen, Ralph Kemmerer, Naperville and Rev. J. Frederick Speer, Joliet; Secretary, Rev. Milton Heitzman, Lockport; Treasurer, Mrs. George Freis, Symerton and Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Edward McDonald, Rt. 3, Joliet.

Farm Bureau Soil Lab. Kept Busy

Hundreds of soil samples from many different Will county farms have been brought to the soil laboratory operated by the Will County Farm Bureau in recent days according to Wayne Churchill, Farm Adviser.

He urges every farmer to have his entire farm tested for limestone, phosphorus and potash before applying any of these plant foods. He further stated that most farmers usually apply three tons of limestone per acre and one thousand pounds of rock phosphate per acre if they guess as to their soil and crop requirements. Results from testing nearly 18,000 acres of Will County land reveal that over 80 percent of the farmers are guessing wrong when they apply 1000 pounds of phosphate and three tons of limestone per acre. Of the farms tested, most of them do not require as much as three tons of limestone per acre but do require far more than 1000 pounds of rock phosphate per acre. A lack of phosphorus is one of the crying needs on most Will county farms. Potash deficiency is beginning to show up on several farms.

Farmers who have made use of the laboratory since it was started in April of 1947 have saved themselves hundreds of dollars because they have found out just what plant foods they need and what amounts they should apply per acre.

The Farm Adviser hopes that several thousand more samples will be brought into the laboratory before freezing weather sets in. If this is done, the laboratory will be able to operate at full capacity throughout the winter. This would mean that a good many farmers could be advised as to their plant food needs before ordering for 1949.

Directions for taking soil samples as well as free sacks in which to place the samples can be secured at the Farm Adviser's office. For those who do not have time to pick their own soil samples, a soil pick-up service is available at a nominal fee per acre.

Pastures and feedlots are primary sources of worm infestation in livestock.

"Gifts To Yanks" Sponsored by Legion

Carl Stockholm, Chicago businessman, former champion bicycle racer and World War II Navy commander, again will head the American Legion's purchasing committee for the organization's fifth annual "Christmas Gifts to Yanks Who Gave" program.

The Legion's goal is that every veteran and service patient in Illinois hospitals receive at least one gift package on Christmas Day.

There are an estimated 14,000 such patients in 43 hospitals and institutions throughout the state.

Stockholm's group will consist of Legionnaires who have many years of merchandising experience in back of them. They will buy suitable gifts at wholesale prices from cash contributions received at Legion headquarters.

As a result of the work of Stockholm's buyers and the gift packages received directly by the Legion, 13,000 hospitalized men and women last Christmas were remembered with gifts with an average retail value of five dollars. Many of the smaller gifts were combined to make up a larger one which would approximate the five-dollar value.

Although the American Legion itself is the heaviest contributor to "Gifts to Yanks Who Gave" the general public's cooperation is essential to the program's success.

Gift parcels can be dropped off at any Legion post, the 57 armories in Illinois, places of business where appropriate markers will be placed, or at Chicago Legion headquarters, 343 S. Dearborn St., or state headquarters, McBurnie Bldg., Bloomington.

NOT wanted are razor blades, candy, food, knives, matches or second-hand articles of any description. Cash contributions should be made payable to the American Legion, Department of Illinois, at the Chicago or Bloomington addresses, and marked "Gifts to Yanks." John S. Cusack, 8730 S. Bishop St., is Cook County chairman of the program.

Highway improvement projects amounting to approximately twenty-four million dollars have been contracted for by the Illinois state division of highways this season up to Sept. 1 and are now under construction. About twenty-five million dollars worth of similar projects carried over from 1947 are expected to be completed this year.

Lack of enough feeding and watering space in the laying house will result in more culls, and lowered production.

All-Illinois Fishing Rodeo to be Staged Again Next Year

The first annual All-Illinois fishing rodeo, which closed last week, aroused such enthusiastic interest among anglers throughout the state that it will be staged again next year, according to Livingston E. Osborne, director of the department of conservation.

In the contest just ended, more than 80 lakes and streams were stocked with some 6,000 tagged fish, and anglers competed for $60,000 worth of prizes offered by sporting goods manufacturers and merchants of Illinois.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

It's Your Fight, Too!

Bing Crowley was "beefing" the other day about all that Our Town's doing in the way of sending food and clothes to Europe. Bing felt that those struggling democracies should look after themselves.

But most agreed with Judge Cunningham who said: "So long as any family or individual in Europe is helping hold the line for freedom—against the forces of intolerance—it's common sense, and common decency, to help 'em."

Because that's everybody's fight: To see that individual freedom is preserved in every aspect, big or little—whether it's the right to vote, or the right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer or ale with friends.

And from where I sit, no liberty's too small to overlook. Because the minute one small freedom is threatened, all the others are in jeopardy—just as the minute one small country loses freedom, all its neighbors are in danger!

Sweet Dreams....

SLEEP IN WARM COMFORT WITH AN ELECTRIC BLANKET

Wouldn't it be fun to double-cross the weather on cold winter nights? You'd sleep right through without getting up to hunt for extra blankets or waking to pull one from the foot of the bed. With an electric blanket or comforter you can blissfully ignore the thermometer... open the windows wide and slip into a bed already warm.

Even mounds and mounds of ordinary blankets only insulate from the cold... but an electric blanket or comforter produces just the right amount of warmth no matter how the temperature shifts. You set the automatic control only once a season—from then on the electric blanket adjusts automatically to changing room temperatures.

You'll wake refreshed and relaxed. The weight of layers of covers is tiring... one electric blanket or comforter gives you warmth without weight. "Cold spots" are banished, too—your bed is sunny warm all over.

Lovely electric blankets and comforters launder and clean as beautifully as ordinary blankets or comforters. The only difference lies in having only one per bed to launder and store for the summer months—not three or four.

You've been promising yourself a really good night's sleep for a long time... do something about it today. Go to your dealer or Public Service Company and get the details of real sleeping comfort.

Rufe's Ramblings

By RUFÉ PICKETT

I realize that there is no North nor no South today. Of course there are a few differences, especially in the manner of talking in the two former divisions, but for that matter there are expressions that are characteristic in certain localities all over. Take the custom we hear so often in these parts when we greet a friend and he comes back with, "There's no use kicking." That salutation is never used in the Blue Ridge mountains unless the person saying it has time to go into all the details. Folks in the hills have felt that way about it since the time way back yonder when a couple of frogs were in a spring house and happened to fall into a big bucket of milk. Since the milk only came to about two inches of the top the situation looked pretty discouraging and one of the frogs said, "There's no use kicking." He was the one who was found dead next morning.

Now I realize that the younger generation who have grown up since the days of electric ice boxes and cream separators may not see any point in this Rambling but us old timers who used the old methods know just what would happen under the circumstances and after the other frog kept kicking long enough he got up on the big hunk of butter he had churned and over the top he went.

ALL MEN MUST REGISTER AT 18

Inquiries received at State Headquarters and at the local board offices indicate a great deal of misunderstanding exists as to when young men becoming 18 are required to register. Colonel Paul G. Armstrong, State Director of Selective Service, stated today, a great many people think another special registration will be set for these men. However, registration for 18 year olds is continuous and every male citizen is required to register at the local board nearest his home within 5 days after his birthday; if away from home, he may go to the nearest local board office and register taking care to see that his home address is on line 2 of Registration Card, because that address will determine the local board of jurisdiction.

There are also quite a few men between the ages of 18 and 26 who, for some reason, have failed to register; many because they had completed service in the Armed Forces during World War II or were previously registered under the 1940 law, and believe they do not have to register now. However, all men 18 thru 25 who have thus far failed to register, have violated the law, and could, if arrested and convicted, suffer severe penalties under the law. Police officers now ask men in this age group, who may be stopped for traffic violations or any other cause, for their draft cards. Failure to have one is cause for arrest and notification to the Federal authorities. Therefore, all men who have failed thus far to register, should immediately present themselves to the nearest local board for registration which they may do, for a limited time, without penalty.

Tel. Co. Seeks Rate Increase Due To Inflationary Pressure

Illinois Bell today asked for a 16% increase in its total income to be spread among all telephone rates in the 300 Illinois communities it serves. In a petition filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission in Springfield, immediate relief was sought from "inflationary pressures." The alternative cited by the company was that it "will be unable to furnish adequate and efficient telephone service and unable to raise necessary additional capital."

New prices would be applied to all types of service and equipment, and to many long distance calls. Although the new rates would produce a 16% increase in the Company's total income no specific per cent increase can accurately characterize all individual bills, because of varying local and toll usage, the Company stated. The Company also noted that 40% of the increase asked would be paid out in the form of state and federal taxes.

In Mokena, Frankfort and New Lenox residence increases average 2½ cents a day. Monthly charges for all classes of local residence service would be increased 75c monthly and business $1.25 cents monthly.

All other prices would be increased, including private switchboards, mileage charges, service connection charges and miscellaneous items of equipment. On the shorter distance station to station calls which were increased in 1947 would not be raised again; others not raised before would generally be upped five cents, or 1 unit in the case of Metropolitan Service customers.

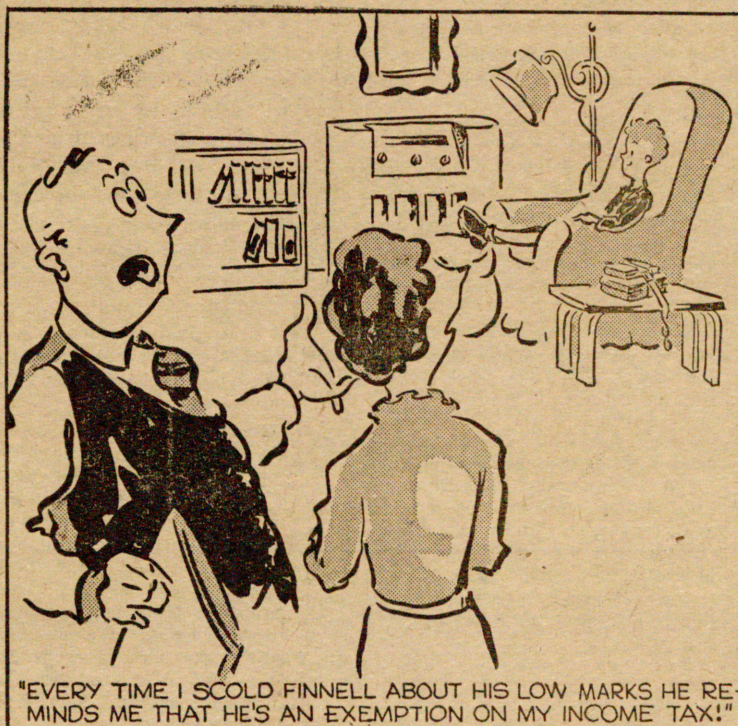

Present 5-cent "special" rates to nearby Chicago neighborhoods would be replaced by the standard 10-cent toll rate. However, in the case of customers with Metropolitan Service, the enlarged unlimited calling area established at the time of the 1947 increase would be unchanged, and where a 1-unit rate now applies on calls to nearby Chicago neighborhoods, that rate would, for the most part, continue unchanged.

The initial talking period on 15, 20 and 25-cent toll calls would change from five to four minutes. However, from Metropolitan Service telephones, customers could still talk for five minutes on calls that take the equivalent 3, 4 or 5-unit rate.

There would be no increase on calls to any points outside Illinois, or to Illinois points beyond 65 miles. The Company plea to the Commission was signed by G. K. McCorkle, president, and asked for hearings, without unnecessary delay. "The Company has delayed filing these rates as long as possible," McCorkle states. "It presents them now only after the actual operating results demonstrate the clear need for that action and its urgency. Its action is based on fact, not estimate. The facts herein set forth are well known to the Commission, as a result both of regular and detailed reports to it, and of checks made by the Commission and its staff...."

WEEKLY RIB!

By Roy Mathison

The Bell Company pointed to the sharp rise in cost of operation since 1940, which has been at a faster rate than income. In the petition's words, "Annual operating payroll has increased about $76,000,000 since 1940, or more than 184%, and its other expenses, on an annual basis have increased about $35,000,000 or 84%. The company adds that the rise in revenue during this same period has been at a much slower rate.

The result of continued inflation, according to the Company statement, is that "the present return on plant investment, after giving effect to the third round wage increases, is at a lower rate currently than it was in 1946....", when Bell applied for its last increase.

Present monthly rates and the proposed rates for the principal classes of service in Mokena, Frankfort and New Lenox are:

Class of Service	Present	Proposed
Rural residence	2.15	2.90
4-party residence	2.25	3.00
2-party residence	2.50	3.25

2-party business	4.25	5.50
1-party business	4.75	6.00
Residence extension	0.60	0.75

And in Mokena:
2-party Residence, Metropol. 3.00 3.75

Abolish Post Exchanges? Oh! Perish the Thought

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Members of a sub-committee of the armed services committee of congress have recently completed a highly interesting tour of investigation. It was ordered because of a spirited controversy now going on in Washington.

I can't help mentioning the subject because its background is made up of some ancient vivid memories—memories of the day when, as a lonely recruit in an ill-fitting uniform and sagging wrap-leggings, I wandered into an army post-exchange for the first time, more than three decades ago.

As I looked around the dreary setting my loneliness was not alleviated. I was at that moment yearning for the corner drugstore back home.

I can hardly reconcile that mental picture with the one of Corporal Roberts, shown on this page, as he reaches for his milkshake proffered by a plump and friendly damsel! The smile she is passing out with the drink would have meant far more to me that day than the smile on the face of the general. Now don't think I'm prejudiced against generals, as a class.

(Some of my best friends are generals). But I must say that what I missed most in the gloomy PX of my rookie experience was not the gleam of a general's stars.

Since that sad day, I have visited many army post exchanges and some ships' service stores (the navy equivalent), and I was a little startled when I heard just recently that they were being threatened with abolition.

Of course there are two sides to every story. I'll try to forget personal prejudice in favor of anything that gives the armed services a break, and present both sides.

One side is represented by private businessmen. They charge that the exchanges which sell the soldier and his family a lot of things at reduced prices is "big business" subsidized by the government, competing with "little business" run by private enterprise.

The exchanges take in about $130 million gross annually. According to a recent analysis, quoted by the "Army Times" (a non-official but approved newspaper for servicemen) the average soldier spends $24 a month in the PX.

Three-fourths of this $24 goes, according to the analysis, for "tobacco, food at fountain, cafeteria and snack bar, for uniforms and insignia, and for candy and bottled drinks." The remaining one-fourth goes for all other purchases, including the "special orders" which many merchants object to, "although special orders constitute less than 3 per cent of the exchange business."

This 25 per cent of the total sales of the exchanges (or 40 million dollars) is only a tiny fraction of the billions spent by the American people every year in private stores on jewelry, watches, radios, cosmetics, toilet goods, and semi-durable house furnishings which come under the head of the "all other purchases" bought in the exchange.

The Army Times points out that the PX competition is chiefly with the stores in the immediate vicinity of army posts. But would those business people rather have no post there at all? The soldier spends plenty off post. Enough, anyway, to have the congressman very anxious and very active in trying to obtain or hold army and navy installations within his constituency.

Looking at the other side of the picture, it is true that some servicemen and ex-servicemen have taken

I think the returning congressmen will verify this.

The army and navy don't say so, but it is no pleasure to them to have to take on the burden of a business simply to offer advantages to servicemen and women and their families which make life easier and cheaper. Ask any post exchange officer how much of a headache an inventory is. He would far rather be inspecting foot-lockers or standing reveille.

The biggest gripe the retailers have against the post exchanges and ships' service stores is the fact that such stores don't have to pay (or charge for) excise taxes. In fact the retailers have demanded that the department of justice look into the legality of the situation.

How the department decides has nothing to do with the army and navy—that is, it will be a matter for the civilian branch in this respect: If the justice department says it's OK by them, the merchant probably will carry their lament to the congress. Then the congress which makes the tax laws and is elected by the people who pay those taxes and also the people whose sons and daughters are in the armed forces, will decide the matter.

And there is also this to be remembered: true, the exchange does have the excise tax-exempt privilege, but otherwise it must meet many if not most of the expenses any retailer has to meet. The exchange manager has help to pay and insure, has maintenance, supervision and accounting costs along with a host of other expenses faced by any merchant—costs and burdens which seldom occur to the average consumer.

The exchanges also have to make a "profit"—not a profit to them, but a 6 per cent figure which the law demands they must clear over all expenses and turn into welfare funds. Their "mark-ups" are, of course, less than those of the merchant.

The Army Times puts the argument this way:

"Out of these markups, the exchanges run themselves and pay the 6 per cent to welfare. That is, the GI buying in an exchange pays enough over costs to return to himself over 70 per cent of the expense of a multitude of off duty activities—music, service clubs, day rooms, hobby shops, soldier shows, library service, athletic facilities and equipment, and the like.

"The theaters ante under 10 per cent of the welfare requirement; the taxpayers put up just about 15 per cent of the vitally necessary welfare and recreation bill."

If the exchanges didn't turn in that 6 per cent profit, the taxpayer would have to provide the welfare items mentioned above. Or the GI of today would have even less diversion to brighten the barren surroundings of camp or post than did this lonely rookie when he walked into the decidedly limited institution which the regular army post provided where your correspondent began his none-too-brilliant but nevertheless unforgettable army career.

Much of man's cussedness stems from poor food habits which undermine mental poise and sociability, says a paper read at the American Chemical society. Maybe it's time for the bride to take those jokes about her cooking seriously.

A letter to the American Machinist says that when an executive dates an employee he should never discuss it with other employees. Maybe the less discussing she does the better, too.

Hens which drink from stagnant pools lay off-flavor eggs, says the Canadian Farm News. And even their best friends won't tell them!

New Rock Island Official Appointed

J. D. Farrington, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company, today announced the appointment of William E. Hayes, assistant to president, to the position of executive assistant with jurisdiction over the railroad's Public Relations department. The appointment was effective November 15.

Mr. Hayes began his railroad career with the Rock Island in El Reno, Oklahoma in engine service in 1914 and during 1917-18 was located at the Carris Avenue yards in St. Louis, Mo. He has worked on a number of American railroads including the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Pennsylvania Big Four and Soo Line and saw service as a trainman, telegraph operator and train dispatcher.

He is the author of numerous railroad articles, both fact and fiction, that have appeared in such publications as the Saturday Evening Post, American Magazine and Colliers.

An experienced newspaper man, Mr. Hayes has been with the Associated Press, the Hearst newspapers, and the New York Evening Journal in editorial and executive capacities. He revived and was editor of Railroad Magazine and has been technical adviser on railroad subjects for a number of publications.

During the war he held the important post of executive representative for the Rock Island in Washington, D. C., and was also the assistant director in charge of passenger operations in the Office of Defense Transportation. When the Rock Island was reorganized in January of this year, Mr. Hayes was appointed assistant to the president with headquarters in Chicago.

The Navy's food requirements for the fiscal year of 1944 were 4,500,000,000 pounds, enough to fill a freight train reaching from Boston to Charleston, S.C.

en advantage of the exchanges. They have made purchases for resale and bought for friends who had no service connections. Also retired personnel have made purchases when they no longer legally should exercise the privilege.

Restrictions have been tightened up, however, and every effort is being made to defeat the serviceman who is trying to cut off his own nose to spite his face when he violates regulations.

ABOUT THE 1948 CHRISTMAS SEAL

FIGHT TB
Buy Christmas Seals

A small blond boy in red pajamas, sitting on the floor and gazing into a lighted fireplace, is pictured on the 1948 Christmas Seal which will be sold from November 22 through the holiday season.

The child is in front of the blazing fire, hands clasped about his knees, waiting patiently for the arrival of Santa Claus.

Barry Bart of South Kent, Conn., well-known artist and illustrator, designed the 1948 Seal, which will also be used with slight variations in Canada, Great Britain, Newfoundland and Bermuda. Bart's inspiration was his young nephew who slipped quietly downstairs on a Christmas Eve to set up his vigil near the three empty stockings hanging over the fireplace.

The words "Merry Christmas" are inscribed at the top of the Seal, and at the left is a red double-barred cross emblem of the National Tuberculosis Association. The gay, colored Seals traditionally are used to decorate Christmas cards and packages.

The campaign this year is part of the nationwide 42nd annual Christmas Seal sale. The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county has set its quota at $500,000, and the proceeds will be used for the continuation and expansion of the Institute's services, Herbert C. De Young, Institute president said.

"The purchase of these Seals is one way in which we can all participate in the battle against tuberculosis, a disease which killed 1,300 persons in Cook County and 50,000 in the whole country last year," he said. "Everyone who buys them is making a sound health investment."

Tests Tell Soil's Need for Lime And Plant Nutrients

CHICAGO—Having your soil tested to find its plant food needs is a good deal like going to your doctor for a health checkup, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"The tests a doctor makes are important, but he doesn't depend on them alone," the statement says. "Besides taking your pulse, temperature and respiration, and checking your heart, chest and kidneys, he will ask you a lot of questions. When he has all the facts, he's ready for a diagnosis.

"It's pretty much the same way with your soil. If you are not getting the high crop yields you think you should, just testing the soil won't give all the answers.

"A good deal more information is necessary. Among important questions are: What crops have been grown previously? What was the per acre yield? How has the soil been handled? How about the crop rotation? Has the soil been limed? What fertilizer treatment has it had?

"Good soil tests from carefully taken samples and properly interpreted in the light of crop history can help you do a better job of liming and fertilizing your soil."

Crop Rotation Needs Help From Well Fed Deep-Rooted Legumes

CHICAGO—Depending on a crop rotation alone to build your soil and keep up its crop producing vigor, is like trying to run your tractor without motor fuel or oil, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Valuable as a good rotation is in balancing soil-building legume crops against soil-robbing row crops," says the statement, "it has to have help in the form of wise management methods. Cropping even in the best rotation drains the soil's supply of phosphate and potash.

"And even if you put back every scrap of barnyard manure, plow under deep-rooted legumes and return corn stalks, straw and other crop aftermath to the soil, you still ship away hundreds of pounds of plant food in the grain, beef and milk you sell every year.

"These nutrients must be replaced if you are to build your soil and maintain high yields at a low output cost. Soil scientists recommend that plenty of phosphate and potash be applied with seedings of sweet clover, alfalfa and grass mixtures. Such management best helps the soil to help itself.

"When deep-rooted legumes are well fed and limed they will give you thick stands and strong roots. They will provide a protective cover that slows down water runoff. And when you save water, you also save nitrogen, phosphate, potash and organic matter."
